MISSISSIPPI EXCEEDS QUOTA

Third War Loan Drive Over Top—Total Near Sixty Million

Mississippi accomplished her biggest financial undertaking in history by going well over the top in the Third War Loan, with state headquarters announcing that unofficial figures showed total bond sales Saturday night, October 2, to be $57,367,000—or $4,367,000 over the state's 53 million dollar quota.

Each of the 82 counties reached its quota, headquarters said, thereby establishing what officials believe to be one of the best state records in the nation.

Leaders are elated over results of the "Back the Attack" drive, and expressed the opinion that final Federal Reserve Bank figures will show total state sales over the 60 million mark.

Many counties oversubscribed their quotas by large amounts, while a few made a "photo finish." Determined action put all counties over, officials stated and on the whole they considered the entire job remarkably well done.

"We are extremely happy to announce that our state has more than achieved the goal assigned us," Rex I. Brown, chairman, and Frank McGeoy, Jr., vice-chairman, said. "Our task was a big one, the biggest we have thus far faced. But we were never fearful of the outcome because we know that Mississippians were equal to the task. A spirit of grim determination to 'back the attack' prevailed throughout the campaign."

"We are grateful for the cooperation shown by all groups in putting this Third War Loan over, and especially want to thank the thousands of bond-buyers and bond-sellers who made the success possible. The story of what bonds will do was carried by women workers in a house-to-house canvass to every home during the drive, and citizens responded."

"With this goal achieved, we are all given renewed courage to continue from month to month to 'back the attack' of our fighting men. We must keep on backing our men with bonds until final victory is won."

The officials said they expected the state to be at or near the top of the nation's list in percentage of individual sales. Last week's report showed Mississippi third in bonds sold to individual people.

In Hancock County the total sale of War Bonds amounted to $474,308.75, which amount exceeded over

Reception of S. J. A. Young Pupils Into The Sodality Of Holy Angels

A solemn reception of new members into the Holy Angels Sodality took place Wednesday, September twenty-ninth, at three o'clock in the afternoon.

The procession was played by Sister Marie Antoinette, music teacher at S. J. A. and, as the soft strains filled the church, the future "angels" marched slowly in to take their places in the front pews.

The picture formed was an attractive one, as all, old and new sodalists wore their complete white uniforms.

A profusion of beautiful flowers decked the altars always resplendent through the deft fingers of Sister Antoinette.

Hymns were sung and the young fresh voices reminded one of an angelic choir.

Very Reverend Father Gmelch addressed the new members, who, then recited in an audible tone their act of Consecration thus pledging loyalty to the Sodality.

Mrs. Dabney, as only Mrs. Dabney can, took her listeners the trials of the Nolan family with their poverty which they met with courage and how Francis grew with a character built and maintained against great odds. The book is a "best seller" and Mrs. Dabney added to its popularity by her delightful review.

To the workers who so generously gave of their time, we owe a debt of gratitude, to the people who responded so well in the purchase of bonds, we extend our sincere thanks.

Care should be exercised in following the above instructions.

Civilians serving with the armed forces overseas may be mailed Christmas packages following the restrictions outlined above.

GIVE YOUR SERVICES TO THE HOSPITAL

The Kings Daughters Auxiliary Organization has been organized for the purpose of enlisting volunteer service for the hospital. This has been necessary because of the shortage of nurses and it is hoped that ladies who can spare the time will offer their services each day to help out. Sometimes it is almost necessary for a nurse to leave her duties to answer the telephone or interview someone and if there was a volunteer in the office that could be taken care of and a nurse not disturbed.

If time can be given please call Mrs. W. J. Gex, phone 405 or Mrs. C. E. Craft, phone 208 and tell them what hours you can serve.

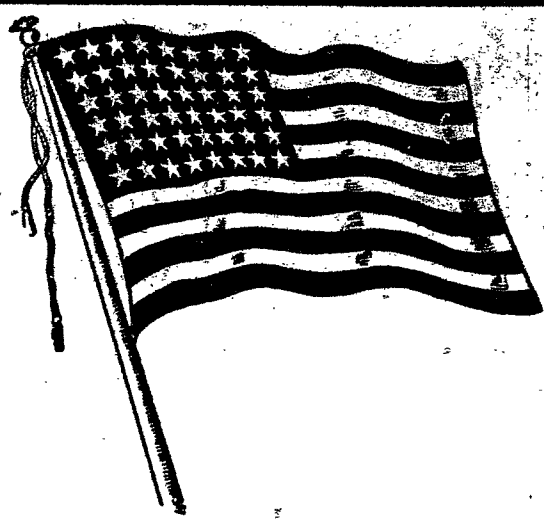

This is a great work and some one has said the greatest words in the English language are "Let me help" and this is your opportunity—the hospital will deeply appreciate any service you can render.

TIME TO PREVENT FIRES

FIRE Prevention Week, one of the many special weeks to be "observed" by Americans, is scheduled for the period of October 3-9, according to a proclamation issued by the President some weeks ago.

Unfortunately, it is extremely difficult to stir up people about the danger of fire, when they have had no fire, and there is nothing much to be gained by talking about the subject to those who have been burned out.

Some 395,000 dwellings were destroyed by fire in 1942 and experts assert that most of the losses could have been prevented. The same observation applies to industrial fires, which show a decided increase this year.

Secretary Wickard, of the Department of Agriculture, reminds us that a farm burns somewhere in the United States every fifteen minutes, destroying crops, equipment and buildings. Eighty-five out of every hundred result from carelessness and could be avoided.

It is said that forest fires, in 1942, destroyed enough timber to build 20,000 Liberty ships or 2,000,000 army truck bodies. Throughout the nation at times smoke from forest fires is visible on almost any trip through the country.

To prevent forest fires it is necessary for us to be impressed with the great loss than can be avoided by the exercise of reasonable care. Common fire hazards in the home, such as chimneys, heating plants, inflammable fluids, etc., become a menace when not properly inspected and safeguarded.

The same observation applies to all types of fires. It is on more than common sense to prevent fires today, when the nation is at war and requires the full output of its industries and farms. Every American understands the danger of fire and it is time for us to put into practice the methods of protection and prevention that are well-known.

This is not a one-week obligation. It is a matter that should be attended to every week but especially at this time of the year when the cold weather makes it necessary for us to use heat. Furnaces, chimneys, stoves and all equipment used, after a summer layoff, should be inspected.

NO INSTANT DEMOCRACY

IT IS constantly reiterated that the present war is designed "to strengthen the cause of democracy throughout the world."

In a sense, this is true but one should understand that no war can possibly create democratic instincts among people. Our victory can remove from the world the autocratic aggressors and thus protect the development of democracy everywhere. This is about all that can be accomplished by the war.

The vast majority of the people of the world have no conception of democratic government and are without the intelligence and training that is necessary to any effort to establish a democracy. Consequently, neither their experience nor their intelligence will be increased as a result of our warfare.

The easy assumption that all the peoples of the world are clamoring for self-government and awaiting the opportunity to establish democratic governments should not mislead us. The devastation of Germany, Italy and Japan will not, of itself, produce democracy in Africa, India, or South America.

Victory over the Axis will secure the liberty and freedom of the peoples of the United States and Great Britain, encourage the development of democracy that is under way in China and Russia and lay the foundation of a world order which will foster and permit the unfolding of freedom throughout the world.

Democracy will not spring into being everywhere just because the war is ended with a peace which provides for the security, the welfare, the rights and the freedoms of the common man. Democracy is a growth which must be nourished and supported by the people before it will bloom anywhere.

TAKE RISKS FOR PEACE

FOR many years, the people of the United States have been told that this country never lost a war or won a conference.

The conference idea is nonsense, of course, but its existence promotes isolationist sentiment and prevents the United States from entering into effective agreements with other nations.

Now that it appears that isolation did not prevent this country from becoming embroiled in war it is well to observe that it would have been economical for us to lose a few conferences, if, by so doing, we could have avoided the present struggle.

Our experience will not prevent certain Americans from asserting when the present war ends, that the United States should avoid all cooperation with other nations. The same argument will be advanced, that our diplomats are unable to keep up with the wily negotiations of other countries.

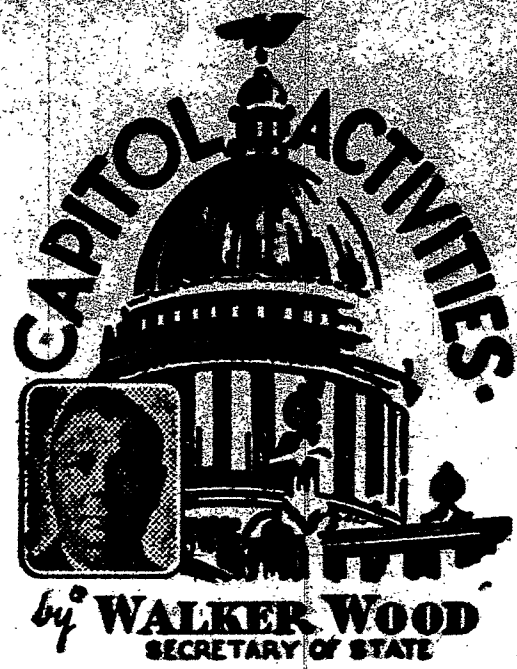

Once more the country will be told that any agreement will involve commitments which will inevitably get us into war. Certainly, such a result is possible, but our experience since the first World War should teach us that it is worthwhile to take some risks in the hope of maintaining peace.

The invasion of Italy may not be a second front, according to Hon. Joseph Stalin, but it is no picnic.

The war situation is favorable but if the pressure is relaxed, our enemies are strong enough to bounce back.

Much of the confusion on the home front originates in ill-founded rumors that are published and broadcast as facts.

Not a merchant ship was torpedoed by U-boats in the North Atlantic for a four-months period. No wonder the Nazis are discouraged.

Scrap Metal Needed

Gov. Paul Johnson has issued a proclamation calling upon the people of Mississippi, organizations and individuals, to get into the campaign to raise scrap metal for war purposes. More scrap metal is needed in the manufacture of the implements of war and unless this metal is found and sent to the factories there is going to be a slowing down of production, and that simply must not happen. The American people can not afford to let it happen. Our fight is going too well now to have it set back by a shortage of material. Let every one: man, woman and child, in the state join the movement to gather up all kinds of scrap metal for the manufacture of guns and tanks and planes so our boys can finish the job and end the war.

Squirrel Season Opened

The squirrel hunting season opened last Friday, October first, and will remain open through October, November and December. Not more than eight may be killed in one day. Opossums may be hunted by licensed hunters for food, with dogs but without guns, beginning October first. The quail season does not open until December 10th.

Will Poll New Legislators

Governor-Elect Thomas L. Bailey has joined with Gov. Johnson in an effort to work out the situation with reference to the contemplated extraordinary session and to obviate the necessity to holding it, if possible without doing injustice or injury to the cause involved. Both the present and the incoming Governor favor giving the proper support to the teachers and they will work out the plan.

9000 Instructed

It has been announced that junior colleges in Mississippi under supervision of the state gave instruction and training during the past year to approximately 9,000 people in addition to the regular enrollment. These schools have received help in various ways from federal funds, thru the NYA and war relations. The service being rendered by the junior colleges seems very satisfactory and commendable.

Cotton Pickers Wanted

L. I. Jones, extension director at State College, sent out another appeal last week for cotton pickers. He said that the fields of Mississippi contain a million bales of unpicked cotton and in view of its importance at this time it should all be saved. In the manufacture of war equipment cotton ranks next to steel, and without cotton the war effort would be stopped until something could be found to take its place.

Will Be Candidates

The present term of Judge W. D. Anderson, member of the State Supreme Court from the third (northern) district, will expire in January 1945. Judge Anderson gave out a statement last week announcing his intention to seek re-election in 1944. Judge Anderson is the only member of the Supreme Court whose term expires in 1945, hence the only one to be up for re-election next year. The term of a supreme judge in this state is eight years.

Want Fee System Abolished

State Tax Collector, Carl Craig, is sending out a letter to the new legislators urging them to favor the proposition of abolishing the fee system in connection with the office of tax collector for the state and put the office on a salary basis. Under this system an appropriation would be made to pay all expenses and salaries incident to the operation of the office and all collections made by their department would be turned into the state treasury.

Ration Book 4

War ration book No. 4 is to be issued in the near future. It seems that the situation is getting a little tighter in the matter of shoes and that the new policy may be to allow only two pair per person per year. The situation is not getting any better in the matter of sugar and it will not be put on the "free list" at least for some time yet.

Jeff Davis Speaker

Assistant Attorney General Jefferson Davis delivered an address at Vicksburg on Wednesday of last week. Mr. Davis was the guest speaker at a meeting of the LeTourneau organization, which is doing big things in the Vicksburg plant of a nation-wide manufacturing business.

Raking Around

The state of Mississippi is holding a Constitutional Convention, although the present constitution of that state is only 20 years old. Dr. H. H. Bennett, Chief of the Soil Conservation Service of the Government, says that erosion is ruining farm land in the United States at the rate of one acre per minute. During the year ending June 30, 1942, 165, 179 licenses were issued in Mississippi for hunting, fishing and trapping, for which $291,180 was the sum paid.

"A 600-pound bomb exploding 25 feet from a wall creates pressure 80 times as great, per square foot, as that of a hurricane"—Pathfinder. Buying for the Army was started as early this season to make sure that every soldier in the service had the typical Thanksgiving turkey dinner, and at one time it appeared that there would be none left for civilian life, but it develops now that the turkey crop this year is the largest on record by nearly five million birds, total "Turkey Crop" this year being 37,000,000. Ration points have been raised on many articles of food, more perhaps on butter than anything else. Hugh Barr Miller, Jr., a Lieutenant overseas, recently wounded, was decorated by Mrs. Roosevelt, wife of the President, on her recent trip to the war zones.—An order has been issued by the Office of Defense Transportation against the use of school buses for carrying people to athletic games or to county and state fairs, for which purposes school buses have been used extensively. Feed for dairy cattle is becoming a serious proposition in the state; and the shortage may reduce the supply of milk.

From where I sit...

by Joe Marsh

"Jeep Nerves"—that's what Dan O'Neill calls the jumpy way some folks react to the strain of wartime living.

Not that Dan blames 'em. When you work 12 hours a day and travel in crowded buses, live in trailers and put up with inconveniences—it's only natural to get tense and irritable.

"Folks must learn to relax," says Dan, "and take it easy."

And Dan thinks he has the formula. Soon as he's through at the shop he comes straight home, picks out the comfortable chair and pours himself a tall, cool glass of beer.

Then he sits it—slowly and appreciatively—like good beer should be enjoyed.

And by the time that glass of beer is gone, Dan says his disposition is as good as new... and the day's work seems well worth tackling again tomorrow.

It's a real effective formula. I know, I've tried it!

Probably 6,000 Fathers Will Be Called For Examination During Month of November

Several months ago State Headquarters Selective Service stated it was felt that no pre-Pearl Harbor fathers would be required for induction prior to January 1, 1944. This statement was based on the estimation of movement of fathers into essential agriculture and industry and release of those so replaced to the Armed Forces.

Because of the fact that such few fathers have moved in essential agriculture and industry, it is found necessary to process fathers for induction in November in Mississippi. Since it requires approximately 30 days to process registrants for induction, many fathers are being reclassified by the local boards and examined by the local doctors at the present time.

The first bona fide Pre-Pearl Harbor fathers to be inducted (other than those who have been eligible heretofore because they left agriculture without a permit, or were engaged in a non-deferrable activity) will be those with low order numbers who are not engaged in any

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Booby Trap Detector

In the snow, in the sand, on the beaches, on the roads, in the woods, everywhere the Axis soldiers hide "booby traps," to slow the movement of oncoming fighting men of the United Nations. The detector does the same work on land as the mine sweeper does at sea.

Like buying War Bonds, the soldier operating the detectors will never know just how much they have aided in the success of their campaign, but he knows his work is necessary and must be accomplished. If more Americans on the home front will come to realize this, the success of our War Bond campaigns will be assured.

The War at a Glance

In the Pacific, we are fighting a cautious war; our forces will be able to seize any place they undertake; their force will be strong enough or they will not make the attempt. In Europe, we do not believe the Allies will sacrifice a million men by starting a land invasion before being ready. We have the air power to soften up the enemy countries and it will undoubtedly be used. Critics of the war program should remember that a pound of fact is worth a ton of rumor. The U. S. Navy with 14,072 vessels is the greatest in the history of the world. Finland and Russia have not seriously warred for two years—probably a tacit peace. This is the 94th week of the U. S.-Axis war. Italy has done a complete pinwheel—From Axis partner to unconditional surrender and then to a fighting ally—all in five days. It is said that the new German rocket glider bomb is controlled by radio from the parent plane, but this is not authentic. We now have seven field armies—four at home, one based in Australia and two in the African-Italian theatres of war. Total casualties since Pearl Harbor in killed, wounded, missing and prisoners are 105,205. Stalingrad was the turning point of victory for Russia. Blasting German and Japanese cities to the ashes of a Hamburg will teach them that war is a two-way game. Total Axis armies number approximately 15,500,000 and total Allied Armies are said to be 22,300,000. Japan is mortally worried for fear the victorious Russian Army, after conquering Germany, will smash full force at her while she is entangled with us in the Pacific. 18,000 Japanese in this country have professed loyalty to Japan. The Swiss will dynamite the tunnels if Germany seizes her railways. Many churchmen fear when the Nazis are driven out of Rome they will take the Pope away from the Vatican as a prize hostage.

Socialized Medicine Proposed

Possibly the one thing which gives more concern to thoughtful Americans than anything else is the growing tendency to regimentation of our people by a strong centralized government at Washington. All patriotic Americans realize that a certain amount of regimentation of our people in time of war is necessary. But students of government and history full well realize and apprehend that regimentation and control of the sovereign citizens' daily life might easily be extended after the war. It is obvious that there are many reformers and economists in high places in the government who would utilize this emergency to continue after the war their philosophy of a strong, centralized government at Washington at the expense of the liberties and rights of the individual citizen. They seem to forget that it was the right of local self-government and the right to individual initiative that made this country truly great.

In line with this thought a bill known as the Wagner-Murray-Dingell Bill has been introduced in the Congress and is commonly referred to as the "Cradle to the Grave" proposal. This bill has some good features, but among other things it proposes to place the medical profession under the domination of the Federal Government. Among other things it would give the Surgeon General the right and power to:

Employ doctors and set up the amount of pay they would receive; Determine fee schedules for services of physicians; Establish qualifications for those who specialize in any particular medical field; Decide upon

"FIVE GRAVES TO CAIRO" AT A. & G. SUNDAY AND MONDAY*African Desert Locale Of Paramount's Rommel Film

The thrilling drama of how a woman outfoxed the Desert Fox, Marshal Erwin Rommel, and helped lose for him the continent of Africa will be unfolded, as Paramount's "Five Graves to Cairo" opens at the A. & G. Theater Sunday.

A happy combination of high-grade intrigue intelligently portrayed by a competent cast in a locale that has just made history, "Five Graves to Cairo" is the stuff of which unforgettable screen experiences are made. In addition to its powerful entertainment value, the picture is eloquent testimony to the qualities which will make victory inevitable for the United Nations.

Frenchot Tene, as Corporal Bramble of the British Tank Corps, staggers, delirious, into a flea-bitten desert hostelry only to find that he is but a few minutes ahead of the German army, flushed with its victories and led by no less a personage than Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, played with startling fidelity by Erich von Stroheim, time-honored master of Germanic repulsiveness. Tene, with the help of Akim Tamiroff, the hotelkeeper, and Anne Baxter, as Mouche, the French Chambermaid, learns the secret of the "five graves" a potent weapon on which Rommel counts heavily to aid in the conquest of Egypt. Tene gets through to the British lines with the aid of Anne's sacrifice, reveals the secret, and the march on Cairo is set.

The picture is replete with the kind of intrigue and suspense which kept the audience holding on to its seats, but it also offers a tender and touching love story involving Tene and Miss Baxter.

It is no wonder that the film is the well-rounded writing and directing job it is. The men responsible for both departments are Billy Wilder and Charles Brackett, Wilder wielding the megaphone as director.

No review of "Five Graves to Cairo" can be complete without special mention of Erich von Stroheim who has portrayed some of the most hated men on the screen, adds to his reputation with his characterization of the cocky, victory-flushed Rommel. Tene as Bramble, Miss Baxter as Mouche, Tamiroff as the hotelkeeper, and Fortunio Bonanova as an Italian general, aid in making the picture the excellent entertainment it is.

the number of patients for whom any physician may serve; Determine by bureaucratic directive the particular hospitals or clinics which would be eligible to provide service for patients.

If the sweeping positions of this legislation are enacted into law, the result would be to destroy the private practice of medicine. The doctor with all his training and skill would be at the mercy of one man, whose mandates and decrees would be issued from Washington, making the practice of medicine subservient to the will of the State and the politicians. Under the present free American system, medical science has developed continuously through the years, dreaded diseases have been conquered and the lives of our people spared. Political control or government control of the practice will mean medical care through physicians who are politically amenable instead of those who are more learned and skillful. The doctor serves humanity regardless of whether his patient is rich or poor. The government doctor would come when called or fail to come. He would be supervised and managed to such an extent that a good part of his time would, of necessity, be consumed in studying government regulations and unraveling red tape. It is estimated that the cost of the program would amount to 3 million dollars a year.

The medical profession as a whole is naturally opposed to the enactment of such a provision—and we think justly so. Of course if this system should become the law then it is reasonable to assume that this would be followed by the same type of regimentation of the lawyers and all other professions, and then it would be logical to conclude that it would be extended on down the line to the butcher, the baker and the candle stick maker.

Employ doctors and set up the amount of pay they would receive; Determine fee schedules for services of physicians; Establish qualifications for those who specialize in any particular medical field; Decide upon

PULP WOOD USED IN MAKING MANY VITAL VICTORY IMPLEMENTS

It has taken the greatest war in history and a serious shortage in pulpwood which may hamper production for that war, to bring home to America, the realization that this product of our forests and woodlands is the raw material which is making many of the implements of victory, said Dr. D. L. Burns, of International Paper Company, Woodlands Department, appealing to pulpwood producers, farmers and woodland owners for more pulpwood needed in the war effort.

Pulpwood is the basic raw material from which many implements of modern warfare and products for home front uses are manufactured, said Mr. Burns. It comes from many varieties of trees. They are felled and cut into cord lengths and sent to the mills either peeled of bark or not, as the mills may require. There the logs are chipped and cooked or ground and made into woodpulp, which in turn is the raw material for literally thousands of essential war products.

These include smokeless powder to fire our cannon and guns, rayon and paper for parachutes, plastic for airplane parts, fibre cases for bombs and shells and hundreds of types of containers, many water, insect and rodent proof, for overseas shipment of munitions, airplane and tank parts, foods, supplies, blood plasma, army field rations, medical and hospital supplies, wadding and drugs, to name only a few. The list of items made from pulpwood is as formidable as it is essential to the war program.

Pulpwood has been described as the "secret weapon" of the Nazis, continued Mr. Burns. The forests were guide posts in their conquest of Europe and pulpwood products have been the salvation of German arms to date. Fuel, substituting for petroleum they didn't get in the Caucasus, runs part of the Nazi war machine. Pulp, cellulose, sawdust and other products help to feed, clothe and house the people of Germany and many of the conquered nations and their livestock. The Nazis call wood Universal Rohstoff, or the material that will do anything.

When we recognize the great store Germany has placed upon pulpwood we can understand its tremendous value to the United States as a raw material from which so many products with so many war uses are made. Nor can we overlook the fact that pulpwood is effecting great savings in other vital war materials by replacing products formerly made from iron, steel, aluminum, brass, copper, glass, burlap, cotton, hemp, timber and rubber. The savings run into millions of pounds. The use of pulpwood is saving metals, textiles, lumber and Jap-held rubber. You see examples of this in shipping sacks and crates, retail store packages and building boards.

The urgent necessity of overcoming the present shortage of pulpwood at once by increasing production to avert a more serious shortage which would hamper our war production program is emphasized by the War Production Board, said Mr. Burns. The job is clearly up to our farmers, our woodland owners and those who work in the woods. We cannot avoid this responsibility. We would be slackers if we failed to discharge this obligation to our boys at the front. As citizens and patriots we must do our full share in producing more pulpwood for war, for the number of patients for whom any physician may serve; Determine by bureaucratic directive the particular hospitals or clinics which would be eligible to provide service for patients.

If the sweeping positions of this legislation are enacted into law, the result would be to destroy the private practice of medicine. The doctor with all his training and skill would be at the mercy of one man, whose mandates and decrees would be issued from Washington, making the practice of medicine subservient to the will of the State and the politicians. YOUR SON?

You wouldn't knowingly give information which would cause the death of your son. But how would you feel if you saw him gasping for a last breath and then disappearing forever with only a cap to mark his grave? It's not pleasant to think about, but remember that picture when you start to spread a little "inside dope." Remember also if it's not your son it's someone else's son you may be sending to death. Speak of nothing except what you hear on the radio or read in the papers.

REMEMBER The information you give unwisely may cause many LOST LIVES!

victory—and do it now!

The War Production Board, as far back as January, foresaw the danger of the increasing shortage and urged increased production. Farmers and woodland owners have recently been advised that "Uncle Sam needs your trees for pulpwood," and that "pulpwood will help win the war." They were urged to cut more pulpwood "for the Army, Navy, and civilian war needs."

The War Production Board wants 13,000,000 cords of U. S. pulpwood in 1943, the message to farmers said. "There will be a shortage unless every farmer with a woodlot serves his country with saw, axe, team and truck Woods operations fit well with other farm work. Pulpwood can be cut on slack days."

This appeal, directed to farmers of the South, Northeast and Lake States particularly stressed the need for this raw material to make products vital to the prosecution of the war. "You can help bring victory by doing this job—and it's a paying job for you," said the appeal. "Your country knows how busy you are, doing a hundred and one things to help win the war, and knows you are short of help. But your country knows that you will not fail to answer this important call. If you can't carry a gun, you can swing that axe and pull that saw—for Victory!"

Other war agencies are cooperating in the Pulpwood Campaign, Mr. Burns stated. The War Manpower Commission has classified the production of pulpwood and the manufacture of certain products from pulpwood as essential activities.

Local Selective Service and Ration Boards have been notified so that essential workers in this industry may receive consideration for draft deferment and for certain priorities on purchase of necessary equipment and supplies.

The various cooperating groups in the Victory Pulpwood Campaign are all parts of a single program designed to reach the farmer, the woodland owner and those available to work in the woods. The coordinating agency is the War Activities Committee of the Pulpwood Consuming Industries, representing the mills.

Every able-bodied citizen who lives near a woodland can help win the war by cutting pulpwood. Our armed forces on the battlefronts over the world depend upon us to produce the weapons and materials with which the victory must be won. We cannot let them down. So, concluded Mr. Burns, I urge you in the name of freedom, to cut pulpwood—NOW!

ORTE THEATRE "THE YOUNGEST PROFESSION"*With Greer Garson And Edward Arnold

The comedy of adolescence is embellished by the appearance of five guest stars, Lana Turner, Greer Garson, William Powell, Robert Taylor and Walter Pidgeon, who play themselves and sign autographs.

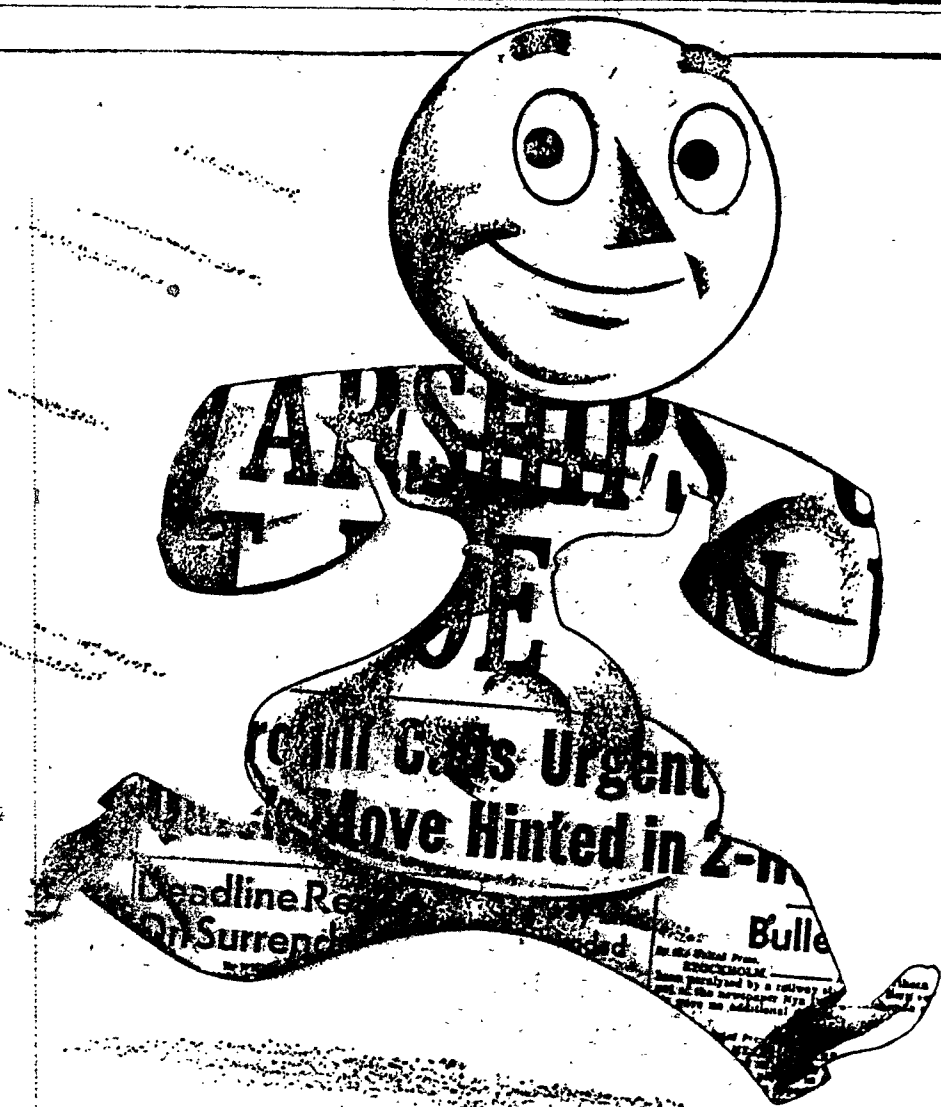

Virginia and her fan club track down the stars visiting in New York. Meantime a gossiping governess (Agnes Moorehead) manages to spread a rumor regarding her father (Edward Arnold), and his secretary (Ann Ayars). Virginia hires a professional strong man (John Carroll) to create jealousy by paying attention to her mother (Marta Linden), and fast and furious complications lead to a comical climax.

Charming and Convincing

Miss Weidler is charming and convincing in her most "grown up" role, and Arnold turns in a sterling performance as her father. Carroll shows his flair for comedy and Miss Moorehead is effectively vicious as the gossip. Jean Porter and Marta Linden, in important roles, are flanked by a group of clever teen-age players including Marcia Mae Jones and Scotty Beckett, former child stars, Raymond Roe and Jessie Grayson. Ann Ayars and Dick Simmons are a romantic pair.

Edward Buzzell directed, bringing out the delicate comedy touches skillfully, and effective photography is contributed by Charles Lawton. The musical score by David Snell catches on and points up the bright humor of the picture, based on the successful novel by Lillian Day.
